Minden ready for the dogs

With thousands of people planning to come to Minden for the Sled Dog Derby on January 14 and 15, several individuals and organizations are arranging side events to add to the derby's excitement and to help welcome the visitors.

Organizers of the derby have been encouraging groups to stage events that will add to the fun of the derby. Race Governor Val Loughheed says the committee would be especially happy to see the cultural aspect of dog sledding developed during the derby with displays:

Displays

Two interesting displays that may be at the derby this year could spark up some interest in more cultural activities for the future. The possibility of having an Indian Canoe Sled demonstration this year is being explored. There may also be a demonstration from a woman who spins dog down to knit sweaters and socks. Neither of these are confirmed yet, but the organizers hope to hear soon.

The derby fun all starts

Friday night with the bib draw at the Rockcliffe Tavern. This is where the mushers are assigned bib numbers, which indicate the order in which they will start. Although it sounds businesslike, the organizers have even managed to turn this into a fun event. This all starts at 9 p.m. and carries on until close to midnight.

Sled rides

This year, in addition to watching the dog teams race, people will have an opportunity to go for a ride in a sled themselves. Terry Thomas of Kinmount has agreed to bring his team to the race and provide rides, for a fee, to the public. Anyone interested in this can find Thomas just across the bridge on North Water Street all day Saturday and Sunday.

Club to host zone curling

Curling fans will have an opportunity to see some highly-competitive play when the Minden Curling Club hosts the Zone 4 playdowns to the Blue Light Tankard on January 6, 7 and 8.

A total of 16 teams from this area will be competing, including two Minden rinks and one from Haliburton. Representing Minden are: Bob Colliver's team of Bob Pollard, Herb Roodenburg and Frank Franzen; and Dwight Thomas' team of Peter Jennings, Harold Cowan and Russ Duhaime.

The play begins this Friday at 5 p.m., when both Minden teams will be curling. Eight more teams will play off at 9 p.m. on Friday.

On Saturday the curling begins at 9 a.m. and continues through until about 10:30 p.m. Games for Sunday are scheduled for 9 a.m., 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

This is a double knock-out event, from which two rinks will advance to regional competition in Kingston on January 14 and 15. The provincial playdowns are in Trenton in February.

Other teams competing in the zone playdowns this weekend are from Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Peterborough, Bancroft, Omeme, Lakefield, Beaverton, Norwood, Woodville and Cannington.

After returning from an eight-week course on blacksmithing, Minden resident Paul Aggett puts some of his new-found knowledge to practice on his own team of horses.

Shoeing an art, science

by Anne Hewitt

There is more to taking care of horses' hooves than people realize. It's a science, says Paul Aggett who just returned from an extensive two month blacksmithing course.

"Everyone thinks a blacksmith is of weak mind and strong back," said Aggett. "Actually it's more mind than it is body."

While at the course Aggett learned about the various bones and tendons in a horses' leg, as well as the structure of the hoof, and the proper way to shoe it.

"If you don't know what you are doing you can cripple a horse," he said.

A horses' hoof is made up of three layers. The live material is blood and bones, and is extremely sensitive. If a shoe is nailed into the sensitive structure damage can be done. There is also the hoof wall and the horny hoof where the nail should be inserted.

"You have to make sure the nails go in and come out in the right place," said Aggett.

In order to ensure he was trained by some of the best Aggett paid $2,000 American tuition for the eight week course at the Oklahoma Horseshoeing School. Even though the costs were high, Aggett feels that by travelling to

Minden man murders wife, then turns gun on himself

Harold Arthur Rowden and his wife Shirley were both killed on Boxing Day in what police now believe to be a murder and suicide.

The bodies of Harold, 34 and Shirley, 30, were discovered at their home north of Minden village shortly after noon on December 26.

An autopsy conducted the next day at Ross Memorial Hospital showed that both were killed with a single shot through their chests from a high-powered rifle.

After investigating, Minden OPP concluded that Harold shot his wife during the early hours of December 26. He then used the same rifle to shoot himself.

Although they are not certain of the circumstances leading up to the shooting, police say Harold had been suffering from depression for some time and had been medically treated for this condition.

The Right Stuff

We are the right stuff
You and me
In living our lives
As they should be
Not in hiding from the crowd
Or in a shell
Behind a cloud
But out in the fresh
And inviting air
That welcomes us
If we choose to care.
Viewing things we Refused to see -
The sky, a bird, a lovely tree.
The friendly smiles
Of those who care
Can follow us
As we travel our paths through life
With lighter steps
Everywhere.
It's so very good
To take off the blinkers
And really see,
We are the right stuff
You and me!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down forward, backward and dia-

1988:
A very good year

Reflecting on the events of the past year brings a certain amount of satisfaction and a great deal of optimism for the new year.

Haliburton County has just completed one of the most active years it has ever experienced in terms of organized events, development and progress.

The Sled Dog Derby, the County Fair, the Bluegrass Festival, and the National White Water races are just a sampling of the organized events that were met with tremendous enthusiasm in 1988. These events are sure to grow in popularity in the years to come thanks to the outstanding organizations behind them and the community that supports them.

The amount of new construction throughout the Highlands in the past year also indicates a tremendous amount of growth, which brings prosperity and security to the hundreds of small businesses in the area.

The new year will not be without its challenges, though. The Board of Education is faced with the challenge of meeting a growing need for elementary classroom space in Minden and Haliburton Villages. County Council is faced with the onerous task of following through with its waste management masterplan. It must also continue to press for a solution to the problem of fluctuating water levels in area lakes.

We are confident these and other challenges will be addressed in the coming year with the same level of enthusiasm and commitment that has made Haliburton the best county in the province.

We wish everyone a happy and prosperous new year.

Weird and wonderful 'Rightists'

All animals are equal, but some animals are more equal than others.

George Orwell, Animal Farm.

I think the angriest I ever saw my father get was the time the young cowhand broke his cane over a baulky cow's snout. My father, who wasn't a big man, grabbed the kid, who was. He spun him around and hissed in a voice that would've done Dirty Harry proud, "I warned you before about hurting animals. You're fired."

Believe it or not a lot of folks thought my father overreacted. This was in the days of horsewhips and electric cattle prods. People didn't think a whole lot about animal rights.

Times change. I wish my old man was around to tell me what he thinks of legislation passed by the Swedish Parliament this past summer.

It's a Bill of Rights for animals. It grants inalienable grazing rights to Swedish cattle, outlaws tethering for pigs, decrees that both swine and cattle must have access to straw and litter. Swedish pigs may no longer

black 'n white

by Arthur Black

be fed and bedded in the same enclosure. And drugs are out. Swedish animals can have antibiotics or hormones only to treat existing diseases.

There are signs on this side of the water that we too, are softening our attitudes to our fellow tenants. Last month, Cornell University announced it will not be accepting a million dollar research grant from the Federal government to study drug abuse. Reason? The methodology of the research project involves pumping cats full of barbiturates, then withdrawing the barbiturates to "scientifically evaluate" what happens.

You don't have to be Banting or Best to guess that what happens is not pretty. It's also pretty useless. Science libraries already groan under the weight of data obtained from studies of human barbiturate dependence and withdrawal. What's the point of torturing cats?

You'd have to be a Mengelian maniac to oppose most of the thoughtless cruelty we inflict on animals, but the scary thing is - where do you draw the line? Some of the hard line animal rights activists maintain that you and I have no more rights than any other creature on the planet.

So what - do we give chickens the vote? Do we put Jonas Salk on trial as a virus mass-murderer?

Animal Rightists come in all stripes - from reasonable to whacko. There is in New York City, an organization called PAWS - which stands for Pet Access to the World. PAWS mission: to open up the doors of New York's finest restaurants... to lapdogs.

New York City, like most quasi-civilized centres, has health laws that bar pets from food service areas.

Trappers oppose Ministry Parks Policy

Editor:

On May 17, 1988, the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources announced a new provincial parks policy, which severely crippled Ontario's trappers and sportsmen.

The new parks policy is to become effective on January 1, 1989 and in so doing will severely restrict the activities of 1000's of Ontario's sportsmen.

In the New Year,

trappers, hunters and fishermen can expect their activities will be either eliminated, phased out or greatly restricted for 6.3 million hectares of Crown park lands in Ontario. If a sportsman normally frequents areas not within the 270 provincial parks and feels he is unaffected by the new parks policy, he should rethink his position. The area he normally frequents will now have to accept all those extra sportsmen who have had their areas taken from them as a result of the new parks policy. Imagine if you were to remove sportsmen from an area the size of Nova Scotia in the interior of Ontario; visualize the implications to hunter safety and competition. In 1989, when you head to the lakes or woods, this will be reality.

Hunting, fishing and trapping in the province are all subject to strict MNR management guidelines involving quotas, seasons and rules of operation. It has been shown time and again that these closely regulated activities do not deplete fish and wildlife populations, but rather they are the tools which ensure healthy populations. If you have a hard time grasping this reality, I would urge you to call any District MNR wildlife office and ask for clarification. MNR wildlife personnel, biologists and management offices are proud to endorse this management message and continue to abide by management principles despite the new parks policy. In Mr. Kerrio's new policy announcement, he has allowed a political decision to convey a contradictory message to the general public suggesting that hunting, fishing and trapping have no place or must be greatly restricted within parks.

Having been reminded of his wildlife staff's position on the need for management, Mr. Kerrio now states that, "Our Provincial Parks will not be without wildlife management". Unfortunately, his version of management is to allow wildlife in parks to become diseased or overpopulated prior to addressing the situation. With the unusually high incidence of rabies reported in the province this past summer indicating an urgent need for fox populations to be regularly harvested, Mr. Kerrio's management guidelines seem ludicrous.

To add to this insanity, in the majority of cases the MNR rely on the services of local trappers in provincial parks to act as nuisance control officers in an attempt at rectifying a situation. In repayment for the trappers' voluntary services in assisting the MNR and the public at large, they are told that, beginning January 1, 1989, a phase out process of all non-native trappers in all 270 provincial parks will begin.

Ontario trappers and sportsmen, I urge you all to contact your nearest association or federation and band together to oppose a Ministry out of control.

Bob Barnes
Executive Director
The Ontario Trappers
Association.

Park is ready for the season

"With a busy summer season behind us, Algonquin Park staff are busy preparing for the upcoming winter recreation season. In addition, the Park and the Whitney Ski Club also sponsor the annual Algonquin Park Marathon and Loppet, to be held February 18 and 19, 1989," said Ernie Martelle, Park Superintendent of Algonquin Park.

Algonquin Park presently has four cross country ski trails. They are Fen Lake, Mew Lake, Minnesing and Leaf Lake/David Thompson Ski trail. The trails offer a variety of conditions for novices and experts alike. A map is available at the Park providing more specific details. Each of the four trails is packed and groomed to provide a flat, even surface. Track-setting will be as weather conditions and availability

Meeting challenge of the new year

by Bill Scott, M.P.

As I write this report we are approaching the end of the debate on the Free Trade Bill and by the time it is published no doubt the New Year will be upon us.

Many challenges await Canadians in 1989. It is the privilege and task of our government to design policies which turn these challenges into opportunities for us all. I know this will not be done without a lot of hard work, but then very few things worth doing are done without effort.

Sometime early in the year, our government's front benches will take on a new face as the Prime Minister presents a plan of action to the House of Commons for the next four years. It will be a follow through on the commitments made in the campaign and a continuation of the successful directions we began in 1984.

On behalf of the Government of Canada, I wish you and yours all a very healthy and happy New Year.

PAWS thinks those laws are discriminatory and is campaigning to have them changed - so that Mommie Wommie can share her Eggs Benedict with Ookum Snookums, I suppose.

It's easy to dismiss the whole Animal Rights movement as a hallucination dreamed up by loonies who hand-feed their Pomeranians and believe that egg yolks have feelings - but it's not that simple.

I know meat eaters who laugh at vegetarians. I also know that if I could get them to spend half an hour in a slaughterhouse they'd eat nothing but celery sticks for the rest of their lives.

Me? I eat meat - but not pate de foie gras. Not after I found out what they do to geese to make their livers taste like that. Don't eat veal either - not after I found out the tenderest veal comes from calves that never taste grass or see the sky. That they spend their entire short lives cooped up in a tiny stall in a darkened barn.

I guess you could put me down as a half-animal rightist. I'm not likely ever to sign up with PAWS, but I can't pick up those squeaky clean shrink-wrapped packages of chops and steaks at the supermarket without wondering about the animals they came from.

Which I'm pretty certain would give my old man a chuckle or two. He may have been soft on animals but he was no sentimentalist.

He was a salesman.

Minden Lions Club recently made a generous contribution of five hundred dollars, representing the cost of a new wheel chair, to the Red Cross Loans Cupboard. Shirley Mitchell, centre, chairman of the Red Cross Loan Cupboard Committee, accepted the donation from Lions Alan Thompson and Lee (Jingles) Oster.

A look back at 1988

No one really needs to be told that 1988 was one of the busiest years Haliburton County has ever experienced. The construction trade has been reeling with all the new homes, cottages and businesses being built. A great winter tourism season was followed by a better summer. Business is booming and the county is growing.

The following is just a sampling of the year's news highlights from the pages of The Times:

Derby

The Minden Sled Dog Derby, which is the first major annual event of the year in Minden, drew an unprecedented amount of media attention in its fourth running.

The heightened attention to this event was accompanied by an overall purse of $10,000, up significantly from the previous year. Crowd estimates ranged anywhere from 5,000 to 7,000 during the two days of the race.

On most accounts, downtown businessmen were pleased with the event and the business it attracted. A few, however, felt the street was closed too early. Their concerns were later addressed by the derby committee - and Minden Council, resulting in a more acceptable closing time for the 1989 race.

Boom

The healthy local economy could readily be seen in the annual statistics from the Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships building inspector's report.

For the second straight year the value of new construction in the townships increased significantly over the previous year. The total value of new construction in 1987 amounted to more than $5.6-million. A tremendous amount of new construction was carried out again in 1988 and it is expected that the year's figures will easily top those of 1987.

Garbage

With the shocking realization that more than 220 tons of garbage is produced in the Highlands every day, Haliburton County Council decided to take the initiative to implement a comprehensive waste management masterplan.

The study, expected to take about three years to complete, is hoped to result in a more efficient method of waste management. It will examine the potential for recycling and to plan for future landfill needs.

Attention to environmental concerns as a whole increased during the year. As a result, a local environmental lobby called County of Haliburton Association for a Naturally Good Environment (CHANGE) was formed. This group forced environmental concerns to be addressed during the federal and civic elections in November.

Legion

The Minden Legion's search for a home came to a close in late April when the membership of this newly-formed branch decided to buy the former Fireside Restaurant on Highway 35 just north of the village.

An ambitious fundraising drive immediately kicked into gear the finance the $275,000 purchase.

Although a number of other locations had been considered for the Legion, the membership settled on the Fireside because of its facilities and its prominent location on the highway.

Some of the world's best paddlers conquered the fury of the Minden Wild Water Preserve during the World Cup Championships last summer.

Kanawa

With hesitant support from County Council, enough funds were raised to go ahead with a location study for a canoe museum in Haliburton Village. The efforts of the Haliburton Historical Society were in vain, though, as the anticipated support of Sir Sandford Fleming College evaporated.

The society had fought an uphill battle to raise enough money for a study that would investigate the feasibility of relocating the Kanawa Canoe Collection to a permanent museum somewhere in Haliburton. The money was ultimately raised, but the study was put on hold when college board representatives refused to back the society's plans to involve the college in the operations of the proposed museum.

No Portables

After much debate, the Haliburton County Board of Education decided to move the Kindergarten and Grade One classes from Archie Stouffer Elementary School to a rented building rather than buying more portable classrooms.

The board took a three-year lease on the former IGA store in Minden and had it transformed into rooms suitable for school. The board believes that by avoiding the purchase of more portable classrooms, the chances of securing Ministry of Education funding for the much-needed expansion to ASES will increase.

The move to the remodelled IGA building was not without opposition, though. Parents expressed many concerns during public meetings that were called by the board. In addition, an OMB hearing was called for when objections to the rezoning of the IGA were filed.

Water levels

For the second year in a row, a hot, dry summer caused the water levels in Haliburton County to reach new lows, while anger at the Trent-Severn Waterway reached new heights.

The mismanagement of the reservoir system became an issue in the Federal elections in November. As a result, Victoria - Haliburton MP Bill Scott promised to introduce a Private Members Bill if all else fails in an attempt to have the government recognise the situation.

Municipal elections in Haliburton County brought many new faces to the local political scene. Competing with the annual deer hunt and with the federal election, voter interest in the municipal elections was low. Only 17.6 per cent of the eligible voters in the county cast ballots. There were several very close races, though, including one tie. In all, there were five recounts requested.

Bugs

Another invasion of Forest Tent Caterpillars in the Highlands brought a winter-like appearance to the trees as the voracious insects devoured the leaves from almost every tree in their paths.

At one point during this feeding frenzy, there were so many caterpillars migrating to new grounds that police had to issue a warning of slippery driving conditions on area roads.

Some say this was the worst caterpillar invasion in memory, while others contend the numbers were greater several years ago. In any case, it is expected that the county will experience another severe infestation this summer before the populations drop off.

Fires

High temperatures and a lengthy drought created ideal conditions for the worst forest fire in memory in the Minden area as 425 acres of forest fell victim to flames.

The fire was started by a lightning strike in June. The blaze was fanned by brisk winds and spread easily through the tinder-dry bush in Laxton Township before fire crews had it under control days later. Officials continued to watch the area for weeks afterward to prevent subsequent fires from flaring up.

of manpower and equipment permit. Trail conditions will be regularly posted at the fee station at each trail head. Use of the ski trail system is covered by your annual Provincial Park permit ($42.50) or by a daily vehicle permit ($4.25) payable at the trail head fee stations.

Camping is also permitted in the interior of the Park (no permit required). You may wish to use one of the groomed si-trails to enter the interior (no toboggans, please!), but camping within sight or sound of the ski trails, or in trail shelters, is not permitted. We recommend that you camp in low sheltered areas where there is a good supply of standing dead firewood for warmth and cooking (e.g. at edges of beaver meadows).

Snowshoeing and back country skiing enthusiasts can go virtually anywhere in Algonquin. If a definite trail is preferred, ample scope is provided by the ten short walking trails along the highway or either of the two long backpacking trails.

"Winter activities in Algonquin Park can be a very rewarding experience but there are dangers," said Mr. Martelle. The Ministry suggests that you avoid travel across lakes and streams as some areas (such as near creek mouths) can be unsafe, even during the coldest weather. You should always advise someone where you are going and for how long. If you become lost the safest tactic is to follow your own trail back to the road.

Fishing licences great late presents

Forget someone at Christmas? Buy him or her a Resident Sport Fishing Licence as a stocking stuffer. It's a necessity for that early New Year's Day fishing trip. While you're at it, you might want to browse around the sport shop for some other handy items, such as emergency icepicks, space blankets and mini-survival kits.

These items are surprisingly inexpensive and could keep your favourite fisherman warm and alive in an emergency. It's important to enjoy the great outdoors, but even more important to do it safely.

Remember, ice is not consistent. Stick to known routes. Avoid channels and inlets, points of land and areas between islands. Currents wash these areas year-round and may wash the ice away from below as quickly as it is formed, leaving it much thinner there than in the rest of the lake.

Even after long periods of below-zero weather, it is unwise to take the ice thickness for granted. If you choose to travel to your favourite lake by snowmachine, stop and check the thickness for granted. If you choose to travel to your favourite lake by snowmachine, stop and check the thickness. Cut a hole. It takes 18 to 20 centimetres (7 to 8 inches) of clear, blue ice to provide a margin of safety for snowmachine and operator.

With the beautiful glare ice we are experiencing this year there is an added hazard. Ice is so smooth that turning and stopping control are minimal at best. You may think that you are fine until you have to stop or turn to avoid a stretch of open water. By then it may be too late to stop.

Later in the winter, when we do have a lot of snow, snow weight forces water to come up through cracks to form slush. Slush clogs snowmobile tracks and accumulates on the bottom of cross-country skis, making travel slow and difficult. These hazards can turn an enjoyable outing into a life-threatening situation.

Be prepared. The annual list of tragedies of inexperienced people going through the ice has already been started. Help keep it as short as possible.

Kids, mutts, a great combination

In less than two weeks, thousands of people will be coming to Minden as the village once again goes to the dogs.

With a heavy blanket of snow cushioning the trail, conditions are looking good for the fifth running of the Minden Sled Dog Derby on January 14 and 15. Up to 100 mushers from Ontario, Quebec and the northern United States are expected to be competing for a share of the $20,000 purse, provided by Martin Feed Mills.

The thrill of dog sled racing is multiplied in Minden by the exciting atmosphere of the downtown start and finish. From the starting point in front of the Rockcliffe Tavern almost to the turn-off to the arena, the cheering crowds are shoulder to shoulder, two or three rows deep along the trail.

The derby, the largest in Ontario, has become a great family weekend. The crisp, clean winter air, the excited yelping of dogs anxious to run, and the warm hospitality of Minden combine to make this an event that draws people back year after year. But one of the most entertaining events of the weekend isn't staged until after the mushers are done with the racing on Saturday.

The Kid-and-Mutt race, which takes place on Saturday afternoon, gives youngsters a chance to drive a sled. Through the generosity of a few mushers, sleds and dogs are made available for this hilarious event.

The Kid-and-Mutt race starts out at the bridge and finishes about 30 yards away. Each kid is paired with a "mutt" and, one by one, they make the mad dash to the finish line.

The entrant's name and home town are announced over the loudspeakers, the countdown is called out, and at the signal the young musher gives the command. And they're off!

Sometimes the dog

pulling the sled gets distracted from the task at hand and wanders toward the spectators or simply loses track of where the finish line is.

Parents and spectators shout encouragement to try to get the pooch back on track, but that's all they can do because to take hold of the dog or the sled would disqualify the team.

Not all the dogs are big, either. Some kids bring along their own mutts that know nothing of the world of sled-dog racing. That's when the fun really starts.

The most amazing thing about the Kid-and-Mutt race is that, so far, every entrant has been a winner, taking home a prize ribbon. A few especially fast young mushers also receive a trophy and the fastest of all gets a prize donated by a local merchant.

Young Jason fights CF

by Anne Hewitt

When ten-month-old Jason Loughheed has a coughing fit, his lungs rattle and it sounds like he should be taken to a doctor. But to his parents, Gidget and Lawrence, coughing is a welcome and healthy sound.

Jason has cystic fibrosis (CF). The disease strikes young children and makes breathing and digestion difficult. The mucus glands secrete abnormal, thick, gluey mucus, which clog tubes in the lungs and make the child's breathing heavy and wheezy.

"The more he coughs the better it is," said Gidget. "It means he is moving the mucus in his lungs."

The mucus also blocks the flow of pancreatic enzymes necessary for normal digestion. As a result, Jason has to be given vitamin supplements and synthetic enzymes daily. He also has to eat foods rich in fats, because he is not digesting enough fat particles.

"Jason has a diet we all envy," said Gidget. "He can eat gravies, butter, cream and sauces and never have to worry about high cholesterol levels."

In order to ensure that Jason has the proper intake of foods, the Loughheeds work closely with a dietician from the Hospital for Sick Children. Jason's meals are monitored, and then studied closely before the dietician advises his parents what changes should be made.

Because he is not digesting all of the vitamins from his meals Jason has to be fed more often than most children, but like most CF children he has a small appetite and a queasy stomach. Even though he is now gaining weight, he is still smaller than most ten-month-old children.

"Jason is a whopping 17 pounds," said Gidget. "He looks okay on his own, but he's pretty scrawny next to a baby his own age."

Cystic fibrosis is an inherited disease, passed on by both parents. One in every 20 people carries the gene for the disease, and if both parents are carriers there is a 25 per cent chance each of their children will contract CF. At the moment it is estimated that one in every 1800 children born in Canada has cystic fibrosis.

The symptoms of CF mimic the symptoms of many other sicknesses and Jason had to undergo a variety of tests before an intern suggested to have him tested for CF.

"Sometimes we thought

Gidget and Lawrence Loughheed's 10-month-old son Jason has been diagnosed as having cystic fibrosis. His three-year-old brother Taylor has not yet been tested for the disease. However, even if he does start to show any symptoms, the Loughheeds are confident that a cure will be found within the next twenty years. In order to aid research, they say financial support from the community is vital.

digestive enzymes present in the intestines. In cases of CF these are usually quite low.

"The procedure is really quite simple," said Gidget. "For us, it ended five months of waiting."

At the moment there is no cure for cystic fibrosis. However, because of improved treatment methods, the average life expectancy of a person with CF has risen from four years in 1960 to 20 years or better.

Part of the treatment is an extensive physiotherapy program. Twice a day Jason's parents give him physiotherapy. In the morning they work on the lower lobes of his lungs, and at night they work on the upper lobes.

The procedure involves placing Jason in different positions depending on which air passages need to be cleared. Then with cupped hands they gently clap him over various lobes of his lungs. This method allows a great deal of mucus to be brought up.

Jason also uses an aerosol mask to help treat cystic fibrosis. The aerosol solutions can be used to thin and loosen the mucus in the lungs, and they may also contain antibiotics to help prevent infection.

The emotional aspects of having a child with cystic fibrosis can be staggering.

Purse, reputation bring best racers

The fifth running of the Minden Sled Dog Derby will once again be a highlight of winter in the Haliburton Highlands.

On January 14 and 15, world-class mushers will return to Minden to compete in the largest sled dog derby in Ontario and the only one sanctioned by the International Sled Dog Racing Association (ISDRA).

Two factors are expected to attract the highest level of competition in the race's history to this year's event. First, the 1988 Minden Sled Dog Derby received an "excellent" rating from ISDRA, based on evaluations submitdouble the 1988 purse and four times the 1987 purse.

As a result, competition at the 1989 Minden Sled Dog Derby is expected to be stiffer than ever. Last year, 80 teams from across Ontario, Quebec and the northern United States competed in the four- and eight-dog classes, including two of the world's top 10 eight-dog mushers and 11 of the top 20 four-dog mushers.

Terri Killam of Northboro, Massachusetts, winner of the eight-dog class, was ISDRA 1988 Gold Medal winner in that class. Four-dog Gold Medal Winner Steve Bain of Everett, Ontario, placed fifth in the four-dog event in Minden in 1988. Because ISDRA is the only organization of its kind in the world, its medal rankings indicate world-class standings.

These high standards make the Minden Sled Dog Derby an exciting event for spectators too. A ring-side view of the Start/Finish line is available to competing racers. The accompanying remarks describe the Minden Sled Dog Derby as "a credit to the sport ... one of the nicest and most organized races".

As Race Governor Val Lougheed points out, this rating is "a massive international pat on the back" for Minden and a tribute to the team spirit of the entire community in putting on this world-class event.

Second, thanks to the generosity of race sponsor Martin Feed Mills of Elmira, the purse for the 1989 derby has been increased to $20,000. This is to the Main Street crowd. Spectators are also welcome to venture out onto the trail and to visit the "pit" area to talk with the mushers and look over the dogs and puppies. All in all, it makes for a great winter weekend for everyone.

Kinsmen Club helps Lougheeds to cope

"It is really very stressful," said Gidget. "Your child's health depends on what you do."

In order to help the Lougheeds in their day-to-day life the local Kinsmen and Kinettes organized an educational evening to train a group of babysitters to look after Jason and his three-year-old brother Taylor. At the moment there are eight Kin families trained to attend to Jason's special needs.

"You need trained people," said Gidget. "You can't just call someone and say 'come and look after my children.' Now we can go out for an evening and have some time off from the children, and the children can have some time off from us."

The Kinsmen and Kinettes of Canada are also one of the leading financial contributors to cystic fibrosis research. In the last 25 years the organization has donated over $10 million to the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The Lougheeds are hopeful that with continued financial support a cure for cystic fibrosis will be found within the next twenty years and that Jason will be able to beat the disease.

"He's a fighter," they said.

Dick Hope opens satellite shop

Eight years may not seem to be an exceptionally long time for a business to be in operation. However, in the satellite TV dish installation business, there are few who can boast an eight year history.

Dick Hope, owner of R. Hope Satellite TV, is one of those "veterans" of the trade. Dick recently opened a retail outlet for marketing his array of satellite television receiving dishes. The new store is on Highway 35, south of Minden, in the former Hans Electronics store. Along with the dishes, Dick has expanded his operation and is now the local representative for Zenith, Panasonic and Samsung televisions.

Eight years ago, when Dick first entered the dish installation business, he was one of the few private installers across the country. Most installations were being handled by the manufacturers. Dick was on hand when the first dish in the county was installed at Wig-A-Mog Inn on Lake Kashagawigamog. After working with the crew from outside the area install the device and seeing the dish pull in a full spectrum of television channels from satellites orbiting overhead, he realized the potential of the new technology. Dick also saw the need, especially in the Highlands, for access to television signals beamed from the sky. Those from regular transmission sources often got lost or distorted in the jumble of hills and rocks of the Highlands. Dick also found his expertise as a welder served him in good stead in the dish installation business.

In the eight years, Dick estimates that he has installed over 300 dishes in the Haliburton County area. Although there is a market for his services beyond the county, he has concentrated his efforts here because he believes that after sales service is important. "This is a new technology," he points out, "people want to know you'll be there after the dish is installed." He notes that while people are becoming more comfortable with the sometimes strange world of satellite TV, he still finds many first-time buyers requiring assistance after a new unit is installed.

The number of receiving stations has increased dramatically over the past ten years, and so has the variety of channels available from the satellites overhead. Just about every taste in video presentation is available to those who have the facilities to receive the signals. However, Dick suggests this is just the leading edge of how this new technology can be used. He predicts that two-way communication via satellite is not far off for individual users. Initially the services offered will be in highly specialized fields, but as the possibilities become more evident, the range and use of the systems will make the television, and its satellite connection the centre of the home communications system.

There are also advancements in transmission technology which will increase the quality of the signal being received. High definition television and pictures with "depth" will greatly enhance the television service now being offered. As well, the size of the dishes needed to receive the signals from space will be reduced. This will be the result of transmitters with higher power outputs. Not only will the size of dishes be reduced, but it may no longer be necessary to mount them outdoors. Situating the dishes in an attic, for example, will greatly reduce the impact of weather on the lifespan of the devices.

While these advances may be several years away or longer, Dick is monitoring the changes in the industry and is prepared to respond to them. The new location of his business, with its larger workshop and the opportunity to offer more services, should help him meet the needs of his clients in the Highlands as the new technology of satellite TV emerges.

Dick Hope, second from the left and store manager Heather Grant, were joined by two important members of the Satellite TV Community in Canada for the opening of the new store. Bill Barr, left, is the publisher of On Sat, the major guide to satellite television viewing, and Brian Dinsdale, right, of Dinsdale Communications, a major supplier of satellite television equipment and spokesman for the industry. The new retail outlet is located on Highway 35 south of Minden in the former Hans Electronics store.

Eight-week course teaches care for hooves

the United States, he has received a better education.

"In Canada the course is mostly offered at colleges," he said. "They weren't as impressive as the American schools."

Aggett was one of 36 people enrolled in the course. The program was gruelling for the students who worked from daylight to dark, six days a week.

"You were so tired by the time the day was over that you just showered and went to bed," he said.

As well as learning the basic elements of horse-shoeing, the students were taught corrective shoeing and forge work. From the very first day they were working on live hooves.

"We were paired with an older student, and there was always an instructor around in case we weren't sure what to do," he said.

Now that he is back from the United States, Aggett hopes to start a blacksmithing business for Minden and the surrounding area.

"Most of the work is done out of the back of my truck," he said. "Eventually I would like to have a shop to do forge work, and in four or five years I would like to have an apprentice."

However, the financial outputs are holding him back at the moment. Aggett estimates that within the next year he will have spent $5000 on tools. A forge is an added expense, as is the coal or propane used to heat them.

He hopes the demand for blacksmiths in this area will help to offset these expenses. Not many people are fully trained in blacksmithing, and the only other blacksmith in the area is in Fenelon Falls.

"There are a lot of cowboy shoers," said Aggett. "A good one is hard to come by."

Aggett says most of his business will come from backyard horse owners as well as camps and stables. He says that part of his job will be to teach the owners how to look after their animals on a day-to-day basis.

"You can educate the horse, but you also have to educate the owner," he said.

He says an area where some owners are not taking proper care of their horses is basic foot care. The feet have to be cleaned once a day and the horse should be shod every six to eight weeks. He says sometimes there is also a problem with discipline.

"There is a fine line between being too kind and being too cruel," he said. "Everybody has their own idea."

Aggett grew up with horses and is not worried about the physical dangers of his new profession.

"Most horses are really good," he said. "Some bite and kick, and others are impossible to shoe. You just have to bull your way through it!"

January 14, 15, 1989. Another big weekend for Minden. The button will help the Minden Sled Dog Derby Incorporated promote and bring many people to our town. We need these weekends. It keeps the town alive. Our town is growing. Having been a cottager and now a permanent resident there is a lot more winter activity, some days it looks like summer.

There are a number of places on the Dog Sled race route where volunteers are needed to help make this event an even bigger success than last year. Phone Val Loughheed at 286-1119. You may only have a couple of hours of free time, it will be appreciated.

The Lions Club thanks you for the support we had in selling our Christmas Cakes, 1,100 sold.

There have been a number of winners in the Hockey Pool, hope my number comes up.

We have 12 locations in town for our Mint venture, it is progressing well. We hope you continue to enjoy them.

The Minden Hospital and the Canadian Red Cross Society have convalescent equipment available to people who need this for a temporary period. Some equipment needed replacement. Minden and District Lions Club purchased a wheel chair, it arrived on December 16, 1988.

December 17, 1988 The Minden Lioness drew the winners of their Christmas Hamper Draw. Lots and lots of goodies in the hamper. My family was not in town that day.

Lucky winners were:

The Hamper - D. Eveleigh of Rexdale, the Ceramic Christmas Tree - Linda English of Minden and the Turkey Voucher - Fran Greig of Minden. Merry Christmas to them and all who supported our draw and Happy New Year.

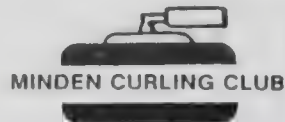

Following the draw the Lioness proceeded to Hyland Crest to serve a Christmas Tea and present residents with appropriate goodie and fruit baskets. Special thanks to Grace Coburn and Norma Barron for helping with the music and carol singing and our two elves Jennifer Wright and Samantha Regan.

At our last meeting we installed two new members in the Minden Lioness Club. We are happy to welcome Doris Thompson and Phyllis Sutherland.

Remember our Quilt and Craft Draw taking place at the Minden Sled Dog Derby January 14 and 15. Prizes may be seen at Country Fabrics. Guest speaker at our meeting was Marion Sarginson from the Heart and Stroke Foundation and you will be hearing from us in February being Heart Month.

JANUARY

With Binoculars

In spite of the chill of winter it is rewarding to turn binoculars toward a few of the season's more subtle specialties. When the sky first darkens search between the northeastern corner of the square of Pegasus and Cassiopeia for the hazy oval of the Andromeda Galaxy. Then, without optical aid look at the lovely Pleiades star cluster just west of Aldebaran. Standing out in a field of much fainter stars its little dipper-shaped outline is greatly enhanced and easily detected in binoculars. Finally, when Orion is well up in the south, look for the line of faint stars angling down from the "belt." They represent the Hunter's sword. On a clear, moonless night the nebulous cloud of faintly glowing gas enveloping the central star in the sword can be seen quite clearly. It is one of the loveliest of the faint objects suitable for viewing with binoculars.

Planets

In Pisces, Mars is near the meridian at sunset and sets around midnight. Jupiter, in Taurus, is a little east of south when the sky darkens and sets after midnight. Jupiter is easy to find because of its brilliance—in fact, it outshines any star in the sky. Although fainter than Jupiter and the brightest stars, Mars' rusty colour helps with its identification. In the morning look for brilliant Venus low in the southeast. Late in the month Saturn, too, may be seen very low in the east just before sunrise. On the 16th Venus, by far the brighter object, is 0.6° S of Saturn.

Bright Stars of Winter

As evening twilight deepens three of the brightest stars of summer emerge in the southwest: Altair, in Aquila the Eagle, sets almost due west shortly after sunset and is followed soon after by Vega, in the constellation Lyra. Higher than these is Deneb, which marks the top of the Northern Cross. At this time of year the outline of the cross stands upright above the horizon a little north of west.

Do an about-face to find the glorious array of brilliant stars rising in the east. Fairly high and almost due east is Capella in Auriga, the Charioteer. A little lower and farther south Aldebaran, the brightest star in Taurus, shines with a golden-yellow hue, while south of Taurus Orion's Betelgeuse beams a deep ruddy-orange. Note the contrast between Betelgeuse and brilliant blue-white Rigel nearby. North of east Pollux and Castor represent the twin brothers of the constellation Gemini. Completing this group of brilliant stars are Procyon, the lucida of Canis Minor, the Little Dog, and Sirius in Canis Major, the Big Dog. Sirius, often called the "Dog Star," is the brightest star in the sky of any season.

Late Evening

The map represents the sky a couple of hours before midnight. The bright stars of summer have now set and the prominent stars and constellations surrounding spectacular Orion are much higher in the southeast. Note how the orientation of Orion has changed. Earlier in the evening the Giant Hunter was tilted on his back, his three "belt" stars perpendicular to the horizon. Now he is almost upright, his belt angled slightly downward to the left. Rising in the east is Regulus in the constellation Leo.

Fainter Stars North and South

The stars lying astride the meridian are much less spectacular than those in the east and west, but they define some striking configurations. A little west of the meridian in the early evening are the four stars of the Great Square of Pegasus. A little north of Pegasus is Cassiopeia, easily seen if you face north and look high overhead for a large, sprawling M-shape. The Big Dipper has now begun to lift, bowl first, a little higher above the northern horizon. It may have been hidden by buildings or trees for the past month or so.

WANT TO APPEAL YOUR ASSESSMENT?

You still have time to appeal your 1988 assessment if you feel your home or business property has been improperly assessed. Your assessment is important because the amount of property tax you will pay in 1989 depends on it. The assessed value of your property is multiplied by the municipal and school mill rates to determine your property taxes.

Notices of Property Valuation were mailed to property owners and tenants whose assessments have changed since last year. Open house information sessions were held in your area to give you the opportunity to ask questions and correct any errors.

The Assessment Roll was delivered to your municipality on December 20, 1988 and will be used to calculate the taxes you will pay in 1989. You can review the Roll at your municipal office during regular business hours. If you believe your property has been improperly assessed and you have not yet registered an appeal, you still have until January 10, 1989 to mail or deliver your appeal to the Assessment Review Board. And remember, even if you did not receive a Notice of Property Valuation, you still have the right to appeal.

Appeal deadline — January 10, 1989

The Assessment Review Board is an independent tribunal under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Ministry of the Attorney General. It is intended to provide you with an additional opportunity to have your assessment reviewed if, in your opinion, it is not fair and equitable with the assessment of similar properties in your area. The Review Board is more informal and relaxed than a regular court of law. You may present your own case, retain a lawyer, or ask a relative or friend to speak as your agent.

To help you in filing your appeal, Notice of Appeal forms are available from the Assessment Review Board, your Regional Assessment Office, or your municipal office. You can also use the reverse side of a Notice of Property Valuation, or write a letter giving the property address and roll number along with your reasons for appealing. Appeals should be forwarded to the Regional Registrar of the Assessment Review Board at the address shown below.

If you appealed your previous assessment, it will be necessary to lodge an appeal against your assessment with the Assessment Review Board each year, if the appeal against your previous assessment has not yet been settled, or your 1988 Notice of Property Valuation does not reflect the most recent decision of the Board.

In those parts of Ontario designated for French Language Services, you can appear before a bilingual (English/French) Appeal Board. Please check the space provided on your appeal form if you wish to use this service.

Novices win against Haliburton

The Haliburton Novice "C" team visited Minden December 22 with an all out determination to take a game from Minden, the only team to have beaten the Huskies in the preliminary schedule. There was lots of scoring in this game but Minden still came out winning 6 - 3.

The scoring opened in the middle of the first period with Andrew Robertson taking the first goal assisted by Ian Clement. Minden came back with their first goal off the stick of Chuck Hopkins assisted by defenseman Clay Davis. Ian Clement then came in for an unassisted goal for Haliburton only to be followed by Minden's Cameron Neville taking the next two goals within 30 seconds of each other assisted by Gavin Gartshore and Wayne Kernohan on one and Clay Davis and Mitch Johnson on the other.

The second period showed one unanswered goal by Haliburton's Danny Jordan to tie the game at 3 with a very exciting third period yet to come.

Minden didn't take long controlling this period. In the first minute of play, Hopkins scored two goals with one assist from Neville followed by the third goal off the stick of Hopkins to Neville and into the net.

Both teams played a strong game and good positional hockey with some excellent goaltending by both Shane Flood and Kevin Harrison.

Saturday, December 24 Fenelon Falls came to town with their team consisting of six players and their goalie. For such a small number of players present, they played a strong game and never showed signs of weakening or tiring. This was a hard game for Fenelon but nevertheless, a game with a lot of action. Only one goal was scored in the game by Chuck Hopkins assisted by Mitch Johnson at 9:25 of the second period. Certainly the goal scoring says something for the effort of the Fenelon team in today's game.

The drama unfolded in the second period, when Fenelon was awarded a penalty shot as a result of Minden's Chris Little, inadvertently throwing his stick along the ice at a Fenelon player, while on defense. Fenelon's Carl Baldwin came down centre ice, one on one against goalie Shane Flood, with Flood coming out of the net to meet him head on. Closing in on Flood, Baldwin shot, only to have the shot deflected. Another super save by Flood. Minden's next game is New Year's Eve Day at 11:00 a.m. at home against Ops.

Lois Lane signing off until next time.

Atoms win

On Thursday, December 22 the Minden Tri-County Atoms met with the Fenelon Falls Atom team.

It proved to be yet another excellent game, with both teams giving their all and more.

The first period being the strongest with both teams attacking hard and holding the game at 0 - 0.

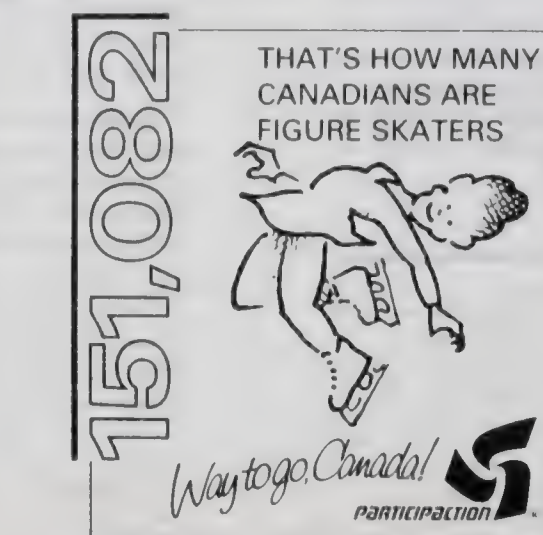

In the second period Minden proved to be the stronger team which led to Marty Dettman scoring Minden's first goal on a breakaway. During the third period Minden kept up the attack and once again scored with a breakaway by David Ra back.

Both teams worked hard providing excellent entertainment for the spectators.

Fenelon fought hard but were unable to score. Minden's win was finalized by a third goal by Daniel Howell, in the last few minutes.

The final score being 3 - 0 to Minden, giving goalie Terry King a well-earned shut-out.

Bantams show strong play

The Minden Bantam Monarchs continued to show strong play in recent games as they took on Bobcaygeon twice and lost a heart-breaker to Oakwood.

On December 13, Bobcaygeon visited Minden and came away the losers in a very close game. Jaime Dollo led the way to victory for Minden with two goals and an assist. Rob Ackerblade earned a goal and an assist while single goals were scored by Jason Scarlett and Oliver Greer. Philip Boyle earned two assists in this game while Darren Sawyer earned one.

It was another close game on December 22 when the Monarchs visited Bobcaygeon and won a 5 - 3 victory.

Ackerblade had an outstanding game, picking up three goals and one assist. Sawyer and Scarlett each assisted on three of the goals. Dollo scored once and assisted once, while the fifth goal was scored by Oliver Greer.

When the Monarchs travelled to Oakwood for a recent game, they were forced to settle for a 7 - 5 loss after a costly lapse in the second period.

The Monarchs played well in the first period and managed to score twice. However, they fell asleep in the second frame and allowed Oakwood to score seven unanswered goals.

Minden did manage to come back with two goals late in the second period, but they could only find one in the final frame.

Scarlett was the top gun in this game, scoring three of Minden's goals. Kevin Buchanan scored one, as did Ackerblade. Assists went to Dollo and Sawyer.

Wildlife needs safe haven from "sportsmen"

by Marion Strebig
Federation of Ontario
Naturalists

Late in November I visited the Niagara River. Large rafts of Red-breasted Mergansers floated off the river mouth, and flocks of Oldsquaw flew lower the river. Farther up toward the Falls small flocks of Common Goldeneye popped up and down. Above the Falls a large raft of Canvasbacks rested, heads tucked so that their distinctive sloping profile was concealed. A veteran observer who has been making the trip to the River for many years shook his head over the size of the canvasback flock. "It's way down", he said.

Recently disturbing statistics have been accumulating about a drastic drop in waterfowl populations. This year's drought, which limited nesting success, has certainly reduced the size of flocks of Canvasbacks and Pintails migrating through Ontario. At the same time North American wildlife officials find that the populations of many species of ducks are at or near all-time lows. The duck population has dropped 60% from what it was in the 1940's, and there exists in both Canada and the United States more habitat than there are ducks to fill it. There is even an initiative in the United States in which hunters are being asked to let duck populations recover by refraining from hunting for a year or two.

Despite this alarming situation, spokesmen for Ontario hunters, whose interests would appear to be best served by serious attempts at protecting breeding stock, insist that no place in Ontario should be closed to sport hunting, including national and provincial parks. The new provincial parks policy which would ban sport hunting in provincial parks classed as wilderness and nature reserve.

"It seems only prudent management to set aside these limited areas of the province as sanctuaries"

All that day I spent along the Niagara River I never escaped the sound of shotguns popping. There was no respite for migrating ducks here. Earlier in November on a visit to Presqu'île, a provincial park famous as a gathering place for migrating waterfowl, hunters in blinds occupied a favourite beach. "Well," you say, "at least there's still Point Pelee." Wrong! Even here hunting is permitted.

In the May 17, 1988 cabinet decision about permitted activities in new provincial parks, all exploitive activities such as hunting, trapping, mineral exploration, mining and hydroelectric developments were specifically excluded from two of the six classes of parks - wilderness and nature reserve. To prove that they are hard done by, the hunters point to the Ministry's statement that 80 per cent of the total land and water base within the parks system will be pure wilderness or nature reserve parks. They fail to acknowledge two facts. One is that a single huge wilderness park, Polar Bear on the shore of Hudson Bay, makes up more than 40 per cent of the whole area of the parks system. Secondly, a 1980 Gallup Poll done for the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources found 86 per cent of those surveyed across the province were opposed to sport hunting in provincial parks. I suspect that the figure is even higher today.

Since more than 70 per cent of Ontario is Crown land to which hunters do have access, it seems only prudent management to set aside these limited areas of the province as sanctuaries in which visitors can still experience a world much as it was before European settlement. As development of all sorts relentlessly gobbles land across the province, it makes good sense to give full protection to some of the most beautiful and biologically interesting areas in the province.

In 1988 the Canadian Wildlife Service released an analysis of how Canadians viewed wildlife: 13.4 million Canadians enjoyed nature in non-consumptive activities such as hunting, hiking, canoeing or simply observing nature, while 1.8 million hunted. The same study revealed that only 10 per cent of hunters are female, while the non-consumptive users are almost evenly split between males and females. Therefore, special consideration for hunters in our provincial parks would constitute a sexual bias in parks policy.

Those of us who worry about dwindling wildlife and enjoy the out-of-doors in a non-exploitive way have our work cut out for us to make sure the provincial government reserve parks as sanctuaries for wildlife. In fact, even in these parks hunters are not totally excluded. Native people may hunt here, and anyone with a native guide may still hunt in wilderness or nature reserve parks.

If you believe there should be places in our province where you can enjoy nature undisturbed, better speak up now before the "sportsmen" convince the government that no place in Ontario should be closed to their activities. Write immediately to the Minister of Natural Resources, Vincent Kerrio, 6th Floor, Whitney Block, 99 Wellesley St. West, Toronto. M7A 1W3, and send a copy to your local MPP. Remember that hunters who represent only 7 per cent of the population of Ontario want to dictate how wilderness areas should be used by all of us.

Common sense curbs tragedies

Snowmobiling seems to gain popularity in Ontario with each passing winter. From 1984 to 1988, for example, there has been an increase of more than 100,000 snowmobiles registered in this province alone.

With more and more Ontarians involved in snowmobiling, it is important to establish safety guidelines for the sport. The most common factor in snowmobile accidents is alcohol consumption. In 1987, of 15 accidents investigated by the Ontario Provincial Police, in which 20 people died, alcohol was a contributing factor in approximately half.

Snowmobiling in unfamiliar areas and inexperience in handling the machine also play a major role in accidents. It is imperative that snowmobilers research those areas before venturing into them. Ice and snow conditions may not always be apparent; large stones or tree stumps may be covered by snow.

Researching areas and weather conditions in advance will also allow the snowmobiler to avoid thin ice, another common cause of accidents.

Speeding causes snowmobiling accidents. As opposed to other motor vehicles, a snowmobile offers little protection in the event of a sudden stop or collision, and the driver and passenger are usually thrown from the vehicle. Snowmobilers should be sure to drive at a speed at which they can still maintain control of the vehicle, no matter what the weather conditions.

Using common sense remains the best way of preventing snowmobile accidents. Letting someone know where you are going, when you will return, travelling with a buddy - these basic safety rules apply as much to snowmobiling as they do to every other sport.

This year will probably see even more snowmobilers than ever. If snowmobilers do their part to ensure they are following the basic safety rules, the sport will be more pleasurable to everyone.
